
hardwork

Posted by arif - 2009/01/06 10:53

All I can say an organization won't live without the support from the members. I sincerely hope there are more dedicated person who are willing to assist this organization stand up and help us to glory.

We are not a new society, where have exist more than 50 years in Malaysia. We should be proud of the hard work our seniors have put in. May the days coming gave us a clearer ways in a challenges years to come.

:)

=====

Re:hardwork

Posted by jymystique - 2009/03/13 21:28

hei arif...

Kudos for all the hard work....

Having the forum is really great.

Now, the problem is generating more members & non-members to use this forum.

May I suggest that MYHA to get members to put in EMAIL in their application and we have the reference of the members so, we can email members about this forum and probably, send them newsletter once a month.

I know its a lot of work. And, i'm just all about talking and can't be there physically to help. But, nontheless, if you all need any help. I'm most willing to help thru online...

I am trying my very best to keep posting on recent events thru the facebook group thingy.

Will promote the forum too..

:)

=====

Re:hardwork

Posted by arif - 2009/03/14 00:58

jymystique wrote:

hei arif...

Kudos for all the hard work....

Having the forum is really great.

Now, the problem is generating more members & non-members to use this forum.

May I suggest that MYHA to get members to put in EMAIL in their application and we have the reference of the members so, we can email members about this forum and probably, send them newsletter once a month.

I know its a lot of work. And, i'm just all about talking and can't be there physically to help. But, nontheless, if you all need any help. I'm most willing to help thru online...

I am trying my very best to keep posting on recent events thru the facebook group thingy.

Will promote the forum too..

:)

We have done that, we have insert it to the yahoogroup. there are more to come...

=====